

A SENSE OF PLACE

AN EXHIBITION OF LANDSCAPES BY ARTIST PAUL LAJEUNESSE DRAMATIC AND SURREAL VIEWS OF EVERYDAY SPACES.

2 Rules Fine Art gallery presents "A Sense of Place," an exhibition of oil paintings by Atlanta artist Paul LaJeunesse. The show will run January 31 through March 1, with a reception on Friday, February 7th, from 6-9pm at the gallery.

LaJeunesse is a realist landscape painter whose work deals with symbiotic relationships of light, space and structure. He attempts to create, in his viewers, the sensation of being present in the physical space of the imagery.

Many of the landscapes in the exhibition were completed by LaJeunesse while in Iceland on a Fulbright grant. Those paintings, mostly done in stark black and white, depict the cold and hauntingly beautiful landscapes of Iceland. Additional works in the exhibition are colorful landscapes rendered with a surreal quality, many with a collage approach that pulls various spaces together into a singular dramatic new space.

"I am fascinated with our perception of time and space, and how we assimilate it with an internal value system, to create meaning for our lives," LaJeunesse says. "The paintings do not attempt to depict a scene, but rather to harken to a moment of understanding of an experience that transcends the sense of self and aligns our being with the universe."

LaJeunesse currently resides in Atlanta, where he teaches drawing and painting at Georgia State University. He received a B.F.A. in drawing from Missouri State University and an M.F.A. in painting from Bowling Green State University in Ohio. He has exhibited nationally and internationally, and he has taught art for almost ten years.

The reception on February 7 is free and open to the public. A Sense of Place will show at the gallery through March 1st. The gallery is located at 85 Church St., Marietta GA 30060. Visit <http://www.2rulesfineart.com/lajeunesse.php> for more information about the exhibition or call 404-355-6897.

ENCOUNTER A NEW FORM OF PAINTING: YUPO
CLASS ALLOWS STUDENTS AGE 50 AND OLDER A DIFFERENT SURFACE FOR ART

Are you an aspiring artist looking for something unique and different to paint on? The Osher Lifelong Learning Institute at KSU has just the class for you: "Painting on Yupo."

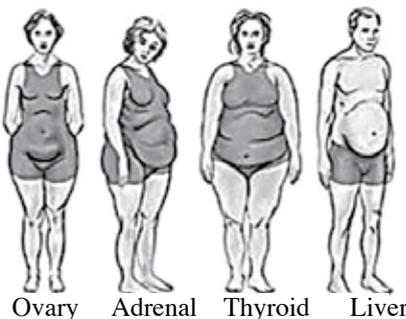

The relatively new watercolor painting surface, Yupo, was originally designed for commercial printing applications. The extremely smooth, non-paper surface is made from polypropylene (plastic) pellets as opposed to trees. This allows the paint to be easily removed and manipulated because it does not penetrate the surface.

Taught by award-winning watercolorist Elizabeth (Betty) Carr, the course is highly recommended to anyone from beginners to seasoned artists interested in loosening up and experimenting with an exciting new surface.

"One of the greatest advantages for watercolorists is the ability to totally remove the watercolor from the paper, if correction or alteration is desirable or necessary, making it very beginner friendly," Carr explained. Painting on Yupo starts Jan.

29 and will meet on eight consecutive Wednesdays (1/29-3/19) from 9 a.m. to noon at the KSU Center. For more information or to register, call (770) 499-3340 or visit ksuulli.com.
